

Ceramics for metal casting from the medieval habitation sites of Aizkraukle

List of illustrations

- Fig. 1. Clay half-mould for casting penannular brooches. Front and back. Inventory no. A 12301: 411.
- Fig. 2. Fragment of clay half-mould for casting polyhedral terminals of penannular brooches. Inventory no. A 12301: 411.
- Fig. 3. Clay half-mould with penannular brooch cast in it. Inventory no. A 12301: 411, 341.
- Fig. 4. Penannular brooch with polyhedral terminals cast in the mould. Front and back. Inventory no. A 12301: 341.
- Fig. 5. Crucible from furnace 69. Inventory no. A 12301: 410.
- Fig. 6. Crucibles from the Daugmale site. A, B – two uninventoried crucibles, stray finds; C – crucible from the excavation on the hill-fort by V. Ģinters. Inventory no. A 9964: 1178.
- Fig. 7. Closed crucible. General view and spout with traces of bronze. Inventory no. A 12345: 539.
- Fig. 8. Casting ladle from Asote hill-fort reconstructed by J. Daiga, and fragments of this ladle. Inventory no. 12: 209.
- Fig. 9. Pegs used to attach the handles of the closed crucibles from Asote hill-fort. Inventory nos. VI 12: 182, 279, 344.
- Fig. 10. Pear-shaped crucible. View from front and side. Inventory no. A 12233: 390.
- Fig. 11. Fragmentary crucible, approximately egg-shaped. Inventory no. A 12222: 145.
- Fig. 12. Fragmentary pear-shaped crucible from outside and inside. Inventory no. A 12345: 502.
- Fig. 13. Possible fragmentary closed crucible. A – inside of the crucible, showing the spout at the top; B – top of the crucible (?) with spout. No scale. Inventory no. A 12172: 80.
- Fig. 14. Body sherds from crucibles with traces of molten green metal, probably bronze, and traces of slag. Inventory no. A 12345: 236 (A) : 647 (B).

Fig. 15. Rim sherds from crucibles with traces of a red metal, probably copper.

Inventory no. 12345: 210.

Fig. 16. Casting ladle. Inventory no. A 12233: 258.

Fig. 17. Clay mould. Inventory no. A 12277: 47

Fig. 18. Fragmentary mould. Inventory no. A 12172: 94.

Fig. 19. Mould for casting bars, from Talsi hill-fort. Inventory no. A 11431:
1564.